Basis of valuation
2002 Revision

41. (1) The value of any imported goods shall be taken to be the normal price, that is to say, the price which they would fetch at the time when they are entered for home use (or, if they are not so entered, at the time of importation) on a sale in the open market between a buyer and seller independent of each other.

Calculation of value

(2) The normal price of any imported goods shall be determined on the following assumptions -

- (a) that the goods are treated as having been delivered to the buyer at the port or place of importation;
- (b) that the seller will bear freight, insurance, commission and all other costs, charges and expenses incidental to the sale and the delivery of the goods at the port or place, except buying commission not exceeding five per cent of the total value which is shown to the satisfaction of Customs to have been paid to agents; and
- (c) that the buyer will bear any duty or tax payable in the Islands and other post-importation charges.

(3) A sale in the open market between buyer and seller independent of each other pre-supposes -

- (a) that the price is the whole consideration;
- (b) that the price is not influenced by any commercial, financial or other relationship, whether by contract or otherwise, between the seller (or any person associated in business with him) and the buyer (or any person associated in business with him) other than the relationship created by the sale of the goods in question; and
- (c) that no part of the proceeds of the subsequent resale, use or disposal of the goods will accrue either directly or indirectly to the seller or any person associated in business with him.

(4) Where the goods to be valued -

- (a) are manufactured in accordance with any patented invention or are goods to which registered design has been applied; or
- (b) are imported with a foreign trade mark, or are imported for sale (whether or not after further manufacture) under a foreign trade mark, the normal price shall be determined on the assumption that the price covers the right to use the patent, design or trade mark in respect of the goods.

(5) Two persons shall be associated in business with one another if, whether directly or indirectly, either of them has any interest in the business or property of the other, both have a common interest in any business or property or some third person has an interest in the business or property of both of them.

(6) For the purpose of determining the price of goods under subsection (2) which are uninsured, there shall be substituted for the cost of insurance a notional insurance cost equal to one per cent of the carriage and freight cost of such goods.

(7) Discounts and similar reductions in invoiced values will be deductible from the value for duty only if it can be shown to the satisfaction of Customs that such deductions are available to any buyer purchasing similar goods from the same supplier, do not result from a special relationship between buyer and seller and do not, in any case, exceed twenty per cent of the invoiced value.

(8) The Collector may, for the purposes of this section, require an importer or other person concerned with the importation of goods to furnish, in such form as may be required, such information as is necessary for a proper valuation thereof, and to produce any books of accounts or documents of whatever nature relating to the purchase, importation or sale of the goods by that person.

42. (1) Where any goods, whether or not made or produced within the Islands are re-imported into the Islands after exportation therefrom, and it is shown to the satisfaction of Customs that any duty chargeable in respect of the goods prior to their exportation has been paid, and either that no drawback of such duty has been paid or any duty refunded or that any drawback so paid or duty refunded has been repaid to the Collector, then - Re-imported goods

- (a) if it is shown that the goods while abroad have not been subjected to any process, repair, renovation or improvement, they may be delivered without payment of duty for home use; or
- (b) if it is shown that the goods while abroad have been subjected to a process of repair, renovation or improvement and if the owner of such goods has, at the time of entering them for export, declared the purpose of such export, and if such goods are re-imported in repaired, restored or processed form but without there being any substantial change in their form or character, then those goods shall be chargeable with duty as if the increase in the value of the goods attributable to the process were the whole value thereof.

(2) For the purpose of paragraph (b) of subsection (1) any sum contracted to be paid for the execution of a process or repair on any goods shall be prima facie evidence of the increase of the value of the goods attributable to such process or repair; but this provision shall be without prejudice to any other provision as to the ascertainment of the value of goods.

(3) When goods are re-imported into the Islands after having been processed abroad to such an extent that there has been a substantial change in the form and character of such goods, then duty shall be chargeable on the whole value of the goods, determined under section 41.
